

Giving you direction and focus when you need it most

Clairvoyant Toni R (PIN 6106)
talks to TheCircle

Firstly, can you tell us about your readings?

My readings are centred around what is happening with the sitter at the time; I can usually pick up what has happened and get a sense of a likely outcome. I guide rather than advise — it is really important not to put your own values on to your sitter. What might excite one person, such as sudden change could send another into a panic. I say what I am getting but am mindful of how I pass the information on.

How did you discover or train to be clairvoyant?

I discovered by having readings myself. I was always told I was psychic and after many readings over a period of about ten years, I asked “how can I be clairvoyant?” as I was not aware of it. The reader asked me when was I ever still and not active. I was only still when I was asleep as I had three small children, three children in three and a half years so there was no down time for me. When he said that to me, I went on a mission to learn to meditate. I found a teacher and my development or awakening began. It was immediate. I do not think you need to ever stop developing and I still work on enhancing my ability.

Do you need to use a tool, such as cards and so on to use your clairvoyance, or do you read without anything at all?

I use Tarot cards and psychometry in a face-to-face reading. For email readings, I prefer to meditate and find I can sense a lot of information by tuning in to someone that way.

How did you react the first time you saw or heard someone from spirit talking to you, how did you feel?

It took me a while to realise as most of my messages come in as thoughts. At first I did not trust them as I was not sure of the difference from my always thinking mind. I really started to take notice of my gift when spirit told me that I would meet two certain people overseas. Spirit even gave me their names and then it came true. Part of meditation and sitting in a circle is about learning to notice the different energies when spirit is around or if you are psychically tuned in to someone.

“I pick up on what has happened and sense the outcome”

What do your callers want to know?

Whether they will see someone again. If their passed over loved one is around them and OK. Nothing too outrageous. I have had a woman tell me she felt her time was nearly up and when would she go. I would never answer such a question other than she will be around for a long time. Mostly, callers want to be loved and know there are positive things coming up for them. Knowing helps them through tougher times when they are feeling a lack of direction or are struggling with certain changes which are inevitable.

Do callers ring when they have fallen out with their partner and want to know if it will all be OK? How do you handle it when you can see it may not?

I usually can sense the differences in personalities and would point those out letting them know how this affects things. I would not lead them on but I would gently point out aspects of their relationship.

How do you advise or help your callers?

I don't really advise, I like to put things back in their court so that they realise their options and can make an informed choice as to what they want to do. Essentially people have to help themselves.

Do/can you give specifics – ie names/appearance etc?

Sometimes I can.

Do your predictions mostly come true?

I only know if sitters or callers take the time to let me know. Obviously, if they take the time it is because something has come true. Even then I do not retain people's readings, they usually have to remind me what I said in the first place.

Thank you for the interview Toni!
